Canada

*Data available
now!*

Census '81 tells you about population, families, household and dwelling characteristics. Here are reliable statistics based on the only 100 per cent survey of the Canadian population.

Because market analysts, government planners and social science researchers all depend on information from the new census, we've put a special Profile Series of data up front — ahead of other publications — to give you an immediate, encapsulated look at the vital information for specific areas.

For each area we've compressed 75 basic facts in easy-to-read tables with explanatory text — some include maps.

- population by sex, age, marital status and mother tongue
- households according to size and composition
- families according to parent type, number of children
- dwellings: single, duplex or apartment; owned or rented

All this for your area of interest!

Canada-wide Profiles

If your interest is in macro studies, Canada-wide, four separate bulletins profile

- all 282 Federal Electoral Districts
- all 266 Counties and Regional Municipalities
- all 112 Census Metropolitan Areas and Agglomerations
- all 653 municipalities of 5,000 population and over.

Province-wide Profiles

Should you wish to limit your focus to any one province or territory we've dedicated a bulletin to each.

Each bulletin profiles all Census Divisions (Counties, Regional Municipalities, etc.) and component Census Subdivisions (cities, towns, villages, municipalities, etc.) within a province or territory. For example, in the bulletin for Québec, 76 counties and 1,619 municipalities (etc.) are individually profiled.

Census Tract Urban Profiles

You can order a Profile for each of the 36 major urban centres in Canada. Each Profile shows the data for small areas or neighbourhoods — Census Tracts — within the city. For example our bulletin for Toronto provides separate profiles for each of the 608 census tracts within that metropolitan area.

Profiles on Magnetic Tape

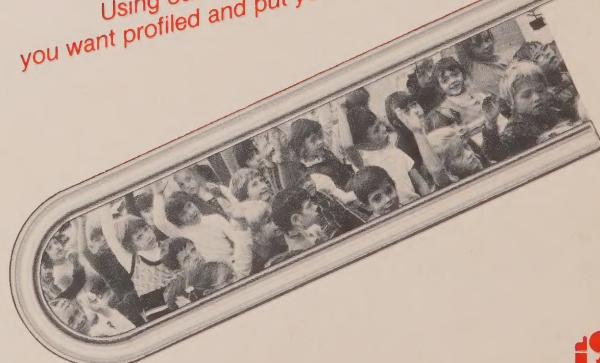

These profiles duplicate the data provided within the above print series. Here's an easy form of access for analysts who need machine-readable data.

Using our order form, you can select the area you want profiled and put your order in the mail now.
